A ROUND OF TALK.

Why the Spring was Late.

By Cora A. Matson Dolson.

Poor, deluded violet, white and shy And sweet song above her, Lifted up her face before March, that rowdy vagrant.

"Thinks me April!" grumbled March.
"I will not undo her."

Since she's come to stay awhile, I'll be gentle to her.

It will make the springtime late, for just so much howling.

Must the winds do and 'twill set humankind to growling.

But he had the winds to stay quiet under cover.

And the blizzard called to sing his sweet song above her.

Asked the soft green grass to start, for her guarding pillow.

And the honey bee to stray round the waking willow.

And the hawthorn bloomed on, blis-santly glad, declaring

Winter past, and steps of spring down the wayside faring.

When the violet withered, March rent his bonds asunder.

Sent the wild winds racing, and snowed the hillside under.

"Thought me April!" grumbled March "How could I undo her?"

Now we make up for the time I was gentle to her!"

EMPERANCE BILL.—The

advocates throughout the State are much elated over the passage in the Legislature of the County Unit bill, which, it is thought will open the way for voting the sale of liquor entirely out of many counties of the State.

With the exception of cities of the first four classes the county is made a unit and upon the action of the county as a whole depends the sale of liquor in any of the cities below the fourth class. In other words the people of the entire county may vote on the question as to whether or liquor shall be sold in any precinct or town in the county below the fourth class. The law may some day seriously effect the liquor trade of Springfield as the town is only a fifth class city and the county would vote as a unit on the question of granting licence to sell whiskey at any point in the county.

FOR PROTECTION.—The retail merchants of Springfield and other points throughout the county have gone into an association for the protection of their business interests and protection. It is claimed for the organization that it will benefit the merchants in many ways and will bring about a better understanding among them which will at least result in good to their interests. One special benefit the organization will be, it has marked for slaughter the professional dead beat, or the fellow who deliberately buys goods on credit and never pays. There are unfortunately quite a number of this class of citizens in the county and the merchants have suffered severely at their hands.

Their methods are the same.

They will trade with a certain merchant until pressed for pay when they will go on to the next store and do the same. The merchants who belong to this association will keep close tab on such customers and they will be reported and other merchants will be warned to be on their guard. This will undoubtedly break up the dead beat practice and will be of benefit to the merchant and the customer alike.

DON'T ORGANIZE.—Every body organizes but the farmer. We have the great man-facturers' trust and the railroad trusts and combinations and even the cross road stores organize, but the farmer off of whom they all live refuses to organize.

He is content to toil on and on and take what he is offered for his products. Farmers in certain parts of the country are awakening to their needs however and the prediction is made that the American farmer will assert himself and organize for his own interests.

SPARKS WELL.—Another term of circuit court has gone by in this county without a single conviction on a felony.

Not only that, there was only one man tried on a felony charge

Doctors are Puzzled

The remarkable recovery of

Kenneth McIver, of Vancleboro, Me., is the subject of much interest to the medical fraternity and a wide circle of friends. He says of his case: "Owing to severe inflammation of the throat and congestion of the lungs, three doctors gave me up to die within a last resort I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery and I am happy to say, it saved my life." Cures Nazareth Buildings Completed.

Tuesday, Feb. 27, was a great day for the Sisters of Nazareth, near Bardonia, as it marked the blessing and final completion of the new building which has been in course of erection for the past eighteen months. Just on the site of the old building, where the foundations were dug there seemed to be under ground channels or caves, which in many instances had to be filled before work could proceed. The building is a handsome one of brick, costing in the neighborhood of $60,000, and across the front is a large colonial porch.

Up in a niche in the facade is a Carroll marble statue of St.

Vincent de Paul. Father Conradin, Vicar General of the diocese and Ecclesiastical Superior of Nazareth, officiated on the occasional absence of Bishop McCluskey, who was kept at home by the inclement weather.

After the blessing of the building the pupils sang "Holy God" and then Mother Alphonsa gave the girls a half holiday. Stand-

Negro Killed

In an altercation between Frank and Joe Robinson in the negro quarters known as "Bad-ly's Roost" or the "Bad Lands," in the south-east portion of town, the latter fatally shot

Frank Robinson, with a .38 caliber pistol, the shot taking effect in the stomach. Both are colored and consins. The affair took place last Sunday evening, and the death of Frank Robinson resulted Sunday at noon. Joe Robinson, who claims to be a native of the county, was discovered by his daughter, and says that he will never speak to her again.—Harrodsburg Herald.

Torture by Savages

"Speaking of the torture to which some of the savage tribes in the Philippines subject their captives, reminds me of the intense suffering I endured for three months from inflammation of the kidneys," says W. M.

Sherman, of Cushing, Me., "Nothing helped me until I tried Electric Bitters, three bottles of which completely cured me."

BARLOW VS BARLOW

A Decision in the Case of Mrs. Barlow Against her

Former Husband Richard Barlow.

One of the most important cases tried at the present term of the Washington circuit court was the case of Jennie Barlow vs. Richard Barlow. Much interest was manifested owing to the peculiar questions involved and the prominence of the parties in the case.

This suit was brought by Mrs.

Jennie Barlow against her former husband, Richard Barlow to recover certain specific personal property alleged to have been acquired by Mrs. Barlow during the time when they were living together as husband and wife.

The articles included a horse, cow and other stock alleged to have been given her by her father and other relatives, and a sewing machine, dresser and other pieces of furniture purchased with the proceeds of turkeys and other poultry raised by Mrs. Barlow. The case was transferred to equity and tried before special Judge, H. W.

Rives, of Lebanon Thursday and Friday.

One of the grounds relied on by the defendant was the doctrine of estoppel. The readers of the News-Leader are well aware that in a proceeding for divorce and alimony between the same

Eat What You Like

Don't Starve or Die, But use Mi-o-na, and Cure your Stomach Troubles

The average treatment of stomach troubles consists of a rigid diet list, which often half starves the patient. Of course it would be foolish for any one who knows that some foods are positively harmful and poisonous to continue eating them, even while following the Mi-o-na treatment, but in ordinary cases of stomach troubles it is not necessary to starve or diet if Mi-o-na is faithfully used, a tablet before each meal.

This scientific remedy, for the cure of stomach troubles, acts upon the whole digestive system and strengthens the organs so that they are able to digest any food that is eaten without fear of distress.

The Red Cross Drug Store has so much confidence in the power of Mi-o-na to cure stomach trouble and resulting ills, that they give a guarantee with every 50 cent box to refund the money unless it cures.
